From The President

Priscilla and I just returned from Ethiopia, where I was teaching at the Evangelical Theological College in the capital city, Addis Ababa. Ethiopia has special meaning to us. Priscilla's parents moved to Ethiopia when she was four years old and she spent eight of the next twelve years living there.

Addis Ababa is a big and bustling city full of the contradictions that characterize so much of the developing world. World class luxury hotels stand next to cardboard hovels and people walk past the outstretched hands of hungry kids to the Ethiopian equivalent of Starbucks to use the free Wi-Fi. Every morning the local mosque's call to prayer fills the air and ornate Ethiopian Orthodox churches erupt from the city's skyline.

Meanwhile, as is the case in many parts of the developing world, evangelical believers quietly go about their business sharing the gospel, feeding the poor, caring for orphans, tending to the sick, educating children, running small businesses, treating their employees fairly, and being the aroma of Christ in a place where corruption and deprivation are all too common. That's why we love coming to places like this and serving alongside the believing community.

We had enough internet access in Ethiopia to be aware of the US Supreme Court's widely anticipated decision regarding same-sex marriage. For several months the Seminary's board, faculty and administration have been discussing issues of human sexuality and considering how a decision like this may affect confessional schools like ours. Clearly, this is not a time for rash action or over-heated rhetoric. We will move forward with intentionality and care. The mission, beliefs, and values of Denver Seminary have not changed. Just as believing communities all over the world have done from the first century, we are resolved to engage the needs of the world with the redemptive power of the gospel and the life-changing truth of Scripture, no matter what changes or challenges or obstacles we may face.

Nothing like a little time in the developing world to help put things in perspective.

Network for Alumni: Colorado Springs

Alumni Relations is pleased to announce a new Network for Alumni starting up in Colorado Springs on Tuesday, September 22. Whether you are looking for professional or personal growth, service opportunities, creative ideas, or ways to grow your contacts, you will benefit from this time with like-minded Denver Seminary alumni. Contact Cavin Harper for details.

Network for Alumni started in Denver in April but our hope is to have networks in cities all across the U.S. Send us an email if you have an interest in starting a group in your area.

Alumni Updates

Jim Mack, MDiv, 1971 (and wife Mary Lee) :

We celebrated our 46th wedding anniversary recently with a nice dinner out fueled by a gift card. We were introduced some 47 years ago through the machinations of Dr. Grounds on behalf of three single seminary students batching it through a summer Greek grammar course.

"Would you gentlemen like a home cooked meal?"
Well, duh, being forced to eat my own cooking that summer I readily accepted. Little did I know that the meal was being prepared by Barbie Grounds and her roommate Mary Lee Dunham, and that I was, shall we say, the target of the invitation. So now after 46 years of (mostly) wedded bliss, we are hoping to reach a 50 year wedding anniversary, Lord willing. We'll let you know in about 4 years when we resurface to recharge our batteries at this alumni forum.

David Pucik, MDiv, 2012: Impossible to be anywhere incognito! In the security line in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, "Aren't you Dr. Young from Denver Seminary?" David was coming back from a mission trip in Rwanda and is now serving as an ordained Anglican Priest, Curate at Church of the Apostles in Columbia, SC.

Faculty Updates:

Helene Dallaire, PhD, Professor of Old Testament and Professor Elodie Emig are hosting a trip to Israel and Jordan in May 2016. In partnership with Jerusalem University College you'll have the chance to learn about the geographical, historical, and cultural context of Biblical events through a combination of preparatory lectures and study in the field. This is a unique opportunity you won't want to pass up! Details and registration can be found online.

Janelle Hallman, PhD, Associate Professor of Counseling will be conducting a three day retreat on August 7-9, 2015 for parents of children with same-sex attraction. The retreat will be held at Denver Seminary and will provide the support, guidance, and resources that are commonly needed by parents in order to remain in strong and loving relationships with their children. For more information, please email Dr. Hallman.
