New and Improved—Check Out the Revamped Alumni Webpage

We hope alumni stay engaged with us long after they graduate.

In our great desire to serve our alumni well, we have revamped the alumni webpage in order to be more user friendly and aesthetically pleasing. We have lots of ways for you to continue to Connect, Learn, and Sustain the life of the Seminary. Visit our refreshed site and let us know what you think!

Should a Christian Be an Environmentalist?

The briefest perusal of the US news cycle makes it clear that environmental stewardship is an important and relevant topic about which our neighbors (both locally and globally) care deeply. But it is also a topic regarding which the Church is largely paralyzed. This lecture will offer reasons for this situation within the Christian community and explore creation care from a biblical perspective.

Offering an overview of the biblical witness from Eden to the New Jerusalem, this lecture will investigate issues such as sustainable agriculture, humane animal husbandry, environmental terrorism, and the link between the “widow and the orphan” and degraded lands. The objective is to ask and answer the question, “Should a Christian be an Environmentalist?” via the Bible’s witness of God’s original and ongoing intentions for humanity’s relationship with creation.

Our speaker, Dr. Sandra Richter, is internationally known for her work on Deuteronomy and the Deuteronomistic History and brings the Old Testament to life by exploring the real people and real places from which it comes. Learn more about her on the event page linked below.

This event is free, but registration is required. Registration closes November 17.

Religious Freedom in a Secular Age

What does it mean to live in a “secular age?” Does such an age constitute a threat to religious freedoms? What is the difference between a secular age that protects freedom OF religion, and a secular age that would advocate a public square that is free FROM religion? Is secularism a threat to be fought, or is it a gift to Western society flowing from Christian tradition? Might it be both?

These questions will frame the address by Dr. Michael Bird, academic dean and lecturer in New Testament at Ridley College in Melbourne, Australia. He is the author of Religious Freedom in a Secular Age (Zondervan, 2022). As gospel-ministry practitioners parse out how to relate their churches and organizations to the public arena of the US, this will be a special opportunity to explore issues of gospel engagement that could set direction for years to come.

In Perspective: Pastoring amid the Great Resignation

Weariness in ministry is not new to the Church. The writer of Hebrews admonishes God's people, "Consider him who endured such opposition from sinners so that you will not grow weary and lose heart" (Hebrews 12:3). Paul encourages the believers in Galatia to "not become weary in doing good, for at the proper time we will reap a harvest if we do not give up." These passages acknowledge the challenge of living and ministering in a sinful and suffering world. Panelists will explore why there has been a trend in leaders leaving their ministries and discuss antidotes to help people address these challenges in healthy ways, leading to longevity in ministry.

Soul Care Initiative: Advent Retreats for Pastors and Faith Leaders

Rather than just a "countdown to Christmas," the season of Advent beckons Christians to explore the mysterious truth of Christ's coming as an infant in light of the grand narrative of God as well as our current reality on earth. This half-day, guided retreat invites pastors and faith leaders to rest and personally engage Advent before leading others into the same mystery. It is a wonderful experience for church and parachurch staff teams to attend together. This year, the Soul Care Initiative is offering two opportunities to attend an Advent retreat: one at Mother Cabrini Shrine in Golden and one at Strauss Cabin Farmhouse in Fort Collins. Your Advent journey will begin at one of the retreats and then continue throughout the weeks leading up to Christmas with weekly prompts for continued reflection.

VIRTUE AND VICE AT WORK

Ancient Wisdom for a Modern Age

RYAN TAFILOWSKI

Virtue and Vice at Work: Ancient Wisdom for a Modern Age

Dr. Ryan Tafilowski,
Assistant Professor of Theology

In Virtue and Vice at Work, Dr. Ryan Tafilowski explores five classical vices—lust, acedia, gluttony, greed, and vainglory—and examines how they distort our everyday work. Each chapter also outlines practices to support the cultivation of virtue and transform the way we see our work, our colleagues, and our organizations.

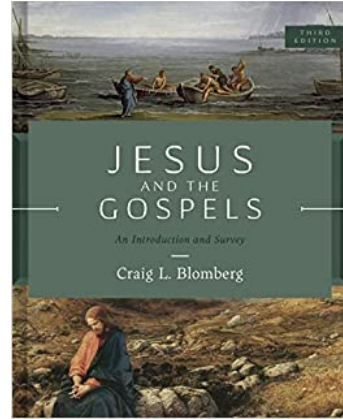

Fire in the Streets: How You Can Confidently Respond to Incendiary Cultural Topics

Dr. Douglas Groothuis,
Professor of Philosophy

From the origins of critical theory in the bowels of the academy to its use in justifying rioting and arson in the name of a dubious equity agenda, an eminent philosopher unmasks the intellectual origins of this mental virus, and details steps rational thinkers can take to combat its insidious spread.

A biblical alternative to matters of justice and politics is available. One that is right and true. One based on the ideals of the American founding. Find it in these pages.

Jesus and the Gospels, Third Edition

Dr. Craig Blomberg,
Professor Emeritus of New Testament

For too long in Bible stories, women have been ignored, overlooked, or simply left out of the narrative entirely. However, within these pages, you will find a more in-depth look into eight women who were indispensable to Jesus' ministry. Some funded his ministry out of their own pockets, some were family members, but all were intensely invested in making Jesus' ministry a success. May all women who read this book realize that they have never been forgotten by Jesus.
